Dr. Shanmugapriya T conducted a workshop on Text Mining and Low Tech at the IIT Delhi Digital Humanities Winter School, held from February 17th to 22nd, 2025. This six-day workshop introduced participants to key concepts in Natural Language Processing (NLP) through hands-on, paper-and-pencil activities. She simplified complex techniques such as topic modeling, guiding participants through interactive exercises where they manually sorted, categorized, and clustered text data. By explaining simulating processes like Latent Dirichlet Allocation (LDA), the workshop provided a simplified understanding of text mining, making these concepts more accessible to students from Humanities Departments, who were shortlisted from all across India.
